

(Not My) Thought of the Day – How Times Change

This is something I saw a similar version of in a comment on a blog but it made a lot of sense. Picture a group of wrestlers who look different enough to tell them apart but get no substantial mic time, have a generic name and wear generic outfits.

Back in the 70s and 80s we'd call them jobbers. Today we call most of them superstars.