

Wrestlemania #13: What Should Have Closed The Show?

This is one of the few occasions where you could argue that the world title match shouldn't have closed the show. I'd actually say close it with the I Quit match. It meant more long term, it had FAR more buildup, it was a better match (and who didn't know that would be the case coming in?) and there's really nothing about Sid vs. Taker that screams Wrestlemania main event other than the title being on the line.

Thoughts?
