

Thought of the Day: Why I Keep Watching

Last night on the forums someone asked if I still enjoyed watching wrestling. My reply:

Absolutely. Yeah there's A LOT of stupid stuff and you get tired of sitting through it, and then one night Fandango comes out and the fans start singing his song. Or Brodus Clay debuts as the Funkasaurus instead of another monster. Or you're expecting some lame celebrity like Justin Bieber to be announced as host of Wrestlemania 27 and instead you hear "IF YA SMEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEELLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLL". Or the night after Rock dominates Wrestlemania 27 John Cena challenges The Rock to a match a year later and WWE basically says "Oh yeah. We're going there!." Or you see Joseph Park absolutely nailing the rookie lawyer character. Or you watch Raw one night in January and John Cena and CM Punk put on one of the greatest matches of all time on free TV for a spot int he main event of Wrestlemania and you can barely stay on your bed because you're trying not to scream at them to kick out because you don't want this to end. Yes wrestling is still fun. You never know when you're going to see something amazing.
