

TNA Running Two House Shows In October

According to Meltzer it's a cost cutting measure. That's a bad sign if they're so tight for money they can't run house shows. I was at a show a few months ago and a TNA employee asked me to write up a good report for them on the internet. The fact that they're relying on fans to report on the internet that they're fun shows on top of this tells me that they're having problems.
