

Thought of the Day: Inside CM Punk's Bubble

So a common criticism at the moment is CM Punk is ignoring the current regime storyline and just focusing on Paul Heyman. Why are people complaining about this? Punk talked for weeks about how much he hated Paul Heyman and wanted to take him out no matter what. He said there was nothing that would stop him from running through everyone Heyman could throw at him until he got to Heyman himself and that's exactly what he's doing.

So why are people complaining? Punk is doing EXACTLY what he said he was going to do, meaning he's sticking to the story that was set up for him. Why is this such a horrible thing? Punk will finish up with Heyman soon and then he'll go after HHH and the new regime. That's not a bad thing at all.
