

Great KhaLi Possibly Released

He's now on the alumni page of WWE.com. If true, this isn't the biggest shock in the world. He hasn't done anything of note in years and is just there for someone to beat in a "surprise". I still don't get people who say he's the worst in the world. Yeah he's big and slow, but what else are you expecting from someone like him? Why would he do anything but use power moves and big man offense?