

Thought of the Day: I Feel My Temperature Rising (KB Babbles About Raw)

And that's a good thing. Looking back at last night, we saw one of the things that you can't plan but it's the best thing in the world to have: acts are starting to get hot.

New Day is on fire right now and the fans are having a great time booing them. Cesaro/Kidd are one of the most polished teams I've seen in years and are giving me flashbacks to the Harts and the Bulldogs. Ambrose is exactly the spark that the main event needed. This open challenge thing is one of the most exciting parts of the show every week. Sami Zayn, the Lucha Dragons and Neville are showing what happens when NXT stars get the chance to shine. Barrett is PERFECT for the king role. Lana could be the biggest Diva in the world if she has any skill in the ring.

I really hope this doesn't jinx it, but we could be in for one heck of a summer if WWE doesn't screw this up. Things are getting hot in a hurry and they could knock it out of the park if they don't do their usual.

A few things that could kill the roll:

Jobbing New Day/Cesaro/Kidd. They're hot, the fans want to see them do their thing, and they're all nailing it. Don't have them be cannon fodder for one off teams like Orton and Reigns.

Don't have Barrett lose five matches in a row and then win once to prove he's still good. It hasn't worked before and it won't work now.

No more 20 minute opening promos, especially from HHH/Stephanie. That fake smugness about "we love the fans and just want what's best for them" has been done so many times and it's completely overdone. Just have them be evil. And don't let Stephanie keep cutting balls off. Or at least let her get some comeuppance. HHH isn't even that bad these days. If he keeps it relatively short he's fine. He's just been stuck in horrible stories.

Don't give us Rollins vs. Kane on pay per view. Just don't.

Keep Big Show in the midcard. The main event stuff was long, dull and didn't work. Yeah the blowoff match was good, but in no way was it good enough to make up for how bad it was. Get Kane and Big Show out of their spots and put Sheamus/Barrett in there instead.

Last night in the Live Discussion I do every week on Raw (WrestleZone Forums. Check it out), I said something like this:

"Either Sami's arm injury is fake or he's the most amazing wrestler of all time."

It seems the latter is closer to the truth as he really did jack up his shoulder during his entrance. Still though, great stuff.

If it's not clear, I really liked Raw last night and I'm hoping it keeps going, but I have a feeling they're going to botch it. As they almost always do.