

Thought of the Day: The Best Face In Wrestling Today

This was a comment but it's worth mentioning to see how crazy you people can say I am. I'm going with Bayley. I can't think of someone who is as innocent and wholesome as she is. She believes in the powers of hugs, she gives girls snap on bracelets, and the sign that she's getting serious is cinching up her headband. Bayley is everything that a face is supposed to be, including someone who loses early to make her big comeback and win later.
