

Breaking: Roman Reigns Vacates Universal Title

Tonight on Monday Night Raw, Roman Reigns opened the show and announced that he was vacating the Universal Championship due to having leukemia. Reigns said that he had been diagnosed with the disease when he was twenty two but it had gone into remission, only to come back now. Reigns made it clear that he is NOT retiring and will be back one day. There is currently no word on what this means for the Universal Title.

I....I have no idea what to say on this. My goodness man. Superman punch that thing in the face and get back soon.