

So The Elite Might Be Starting A Promotion, And It Has Potential

I mean, it's not like they have anything left to do. And there are some important details.

So...what does this mean?

Really, it's hard to say at this point as they're far away from getting off the ground. The names for the shows sound cool and tying it in with a billionaire should do them some good. I have no idea how mainstream this could go, but it's certainly hot at the moment and they might as well make a go of the whole thing. Now, who will WWE be trying to pick off as fast as they can?

Thoughts?