

Dynamite Kid Passes Away At 60

That's one of the ones you knew was coming but it still makes you sad. Kid was one of the most influential wrestlers ever, with Chris Benoit basically being a tribute wrestler for a lot of his career. He was WAY ahead of his time, wrestling the style that would become the norm for a lot of the lighter wrestlers today back in the 1980s. Kid really was a big deal and you should check out some of the stuff he did before the British Bulldogs years when his body had completely broken down as he was awesome before then. Oddly enough, he turned 60 years old the day he passed away.