

The Revival Reportedly Asked For WWE Releases

<https://wrestlingrumors.net/tommyhall/say-goodbye-rumor-revival-requests-release-wwe/>

I mean...can you blame them? The Revival might want out of WWE and really, I can't say I'd be upset. I'm a big fan of the team and have been for a long time but my goodness they've been wasted on the main roster. They debuted the night after Wrestlemania 33 and somehow haven't won the Tag Team Titles once. We're in the middle of Bobby Roode and Chad Gable, a makeshift team, holding the belts and the Revival can't get them?

I know they're not exactly suited for the main roster style, but that's on WWE instead of them. If you want a team that wrestles like the other teams on the main roster, don't set them up as the old school team who wrestles long, drawn out matches. That's on developmental and the way WWE has set the thing up. Revival is a great team and knows how to work the old school style, but if WWE isn't interested in utilizing that, it's a waste of everyone's time.