

How The Women's Tag Team Titles Will Go

Oh yeah I answer questions sometimes. Like this one:

Who'll be the womens tag champs?

This has been a busy week for WWE but one of the stories that has flown under the radar is the announcement of the first ever Women's Tag Team Titles and an official date for the first champions to be crowned. That would be at next month's Elimination Chamber and that means it's time to do some fantasy booking.

So obviously we're going to need six teams and since we're going to both shows for these things, it's a little easier. Here are the teams I'm expecting:

Bayley/Sasha Banks

Nia Jax/Tamina

Riott Squad (Ruby Riott/Sarah Logan)

Mandy Rose/Sonya Deville

Naomi/Lana

IIiconics

You can't say WWE hasn't been setting these teams up over the last few months. Since this is elimination, let's see who we can knock off early. Mandy and Sonya aren't getting any titles anytime soon, Naomi and Lana aren't surviving a match like this and the IIiconics aren't going to win a thing of value for a long time. In other words, the Smackdown teams would be better off allowing Mickie James and Lacey Evans to take one of their spots instead.

That leaves us with three options and each of them could win.

Tamina/Nia Jax

Having the monsters win the titles first is certainly a way to go and something that has worked for a long time. It sets up several rematches ("You can win when anything goes but between these ropes, we know we can beat you!") and it's not like you have to ask WWE to push Jax. I don't think they get the belts though, as Nia is too valuable as a mountain for someone else to overcome.

Riott Squad

I'd love for this to be Logan and Morgan but I can't imagine leaving Ruby out of something like this. These three have been feuding with Bayley and Banks for the better part of ever now and there's no end to the thing in sight. They might as well have some titles to fight over so it seems the slightest bit more important, and I think you know what that means.

Bayley/Sasha Banks

I'm taking the plucky faces as the winners as it's not like there's anyone else that is likely to get the belts. These two have been on the road to these things forever now and it makes sense to put the titles on them. If nothing else the celebration could be fun before they turn on each other again later in the year. I can't imagine they hold the titles long, but they're the most likely candidates to get them for the first time.

Dang the Smackdown side is awful here. How did that happen?

Remember to follow me on Twitter @kbreviews and pick up the paperback edition of KB's Complete 1997 Monday Night Raw Reviews (also available as an e-book) from Amazon. Check out the information here:

<http://kbwrestlingreviews.com/2018/11/20/new-paperback-complete-1997-monday-night-raw-reviews/>

And check out my Amazon author page with cheap wrestling books

at:

<http://www.amazon.com/Thomas-Hall/e/B00E6282W6>