

So Some Stuff Just Happened On Smackdown

One was really confusing and the other was just stupid. R-Truth won the US Title from Shinsuke Nakamura, followed by Rusev challenging Truth to a match. Truth beat Rusev too, so Rusev turned heel and formed a team with Nakamura.

The title change was weird enough as it was a small package where Nakamura seemed to kick out, to the point where Truth kept going after the pin. The turn is just stupid though, as Rusev has been getting more and more over every week. I guess that's not in the cards though and we need some foils for Shane McMahon and the Miz, who are suddenly the top tag team on the show.

Just an odd pair of decisions, and I'm surprised to see both of them.
