

FOX Might Want To End The PG Era

Well that would be...different. I'm not sure on this one. The whole appeal for WWE is the fact that they're going to the FOX network, but if that falls through and they go down to FS1 or something like that, is it worth losing so much else from the sponsorship money/mainstream acceptance they've received? I'm not sold on that, and really I don't want to see the Attitude Era style come back. It's a different world today and WWE has found a very nice niche with the PG style.
