

Wrestlemania XXXV Preview: United States Title: Samoa Joe(c) vs. Rey Mysterio

Or so it seems.

Now here's one where I'm not sure because it's not clear who's going to be in the match. Mysterio is already injured and might not be able to make the match...and it just so happens that John Cena has been rumored for a match on the show, which has just so happened to have Cena vs. Samoa Joe for weeks. As much as I'd like to see Samoa Joe vs. Mysterio, I think you can tell where I'm going.

So yeah, I'm going with the theory that the injury is a work and Cena comes out to challenge Samoa Joe instead. I'll go with the champ retaining in a surprise, which doesn't feel right but would be a great way to push him. The problem with putting the title on Cena is that he'd have to lose it, and unless that takes place in the next two nights, I'm not sure I see that happening. Unless....say to someone debuting on Monday Night Raw or SmackDown Live in a US Open Challenge? But what kind of a Freak would you have to be to do that?