

The Wild Card Rule

It's their big answer to the ratings issues. Vince opened the show and announced the Wild Card Rule, which means three people from Raw and Smackdown can appear on the other show every week. Seriously that's their big solution. Now how do I know this isn't going to fix anything? The match after the opening segment was about 19 minutes long and featured Baron Corbin pinning Seth Rollins.

So yeah, this is a bandage on a gaping wound that WWE keeps stabbing even deeper.