

Silver King Passes Away At 51

That's way too young for anyone. He died in the ring in London and while I haven't watched the tape (and won't be), it sounds rather horrific.

I can't tell you much about Silver King other than he wrestled in WCW during their boom period and was still active (obviously) to this day. He never did much in WCW, but on the June 7 Nitro, he and La Parka fought Ciclope and Damien in a hardcore match which was one of the best matches the show ever had. These four beat the fire out of each other and it has stuck with me for years. Check this one out as it's actually awesome stuff.