You knew this was coming sooner or later and that doesn't make things any better. Starting September 18, the show is going to expand to two hours and air live, though it will still be at Full Sail. Meltzer says it's worth $50 million a year to WWE so the money makes sense. However, you know what this means as it's going to be another place for low level WWE stars to appear over the minor leaguers, because WWE thinks that people who are already on the main shows are more interesting than the top NXT names. Hopefully that's wrong, because it sounds like a nightmare otherwise. And for two weeks, it's Monday/Tuesday/Wednesday of WWE on USA. Because that's what we need.
