

Wrestlemania XXXVI Preview: Raw Women's Title: Becky Lynch vs. Shayna Baszler

IMG Credit: WWE

A year to be a champion, that's a long time.

I'm not used to this. One of the longest running statements that I would make in these things would be "Baszler has to lose this time" and then be horribly wrong more often than not. This time around she's challenging though and I'm not sure how to take that. Somehow it has been a year since Lynch won the title in the first place but the problem is she has run out of serious challengers. That's where Baszler comes in.

I'll go with Baszler winning because otherwise, what is she supposed to do? She dominated NXT at a level that rivaled Asuka and losing would just make her look like she choked (different than when she chokes people out of course). At the same time, Lynch needs ANYTHING else to do at the moment. She's still over and on fire but at some point you have to reset things a bit. Lynch may be the biggest female star ever and a loss after a year as champion isn't going to do any career ending damage.