

Things Might Be A Bit Slow For The Time Being (Again)

Unfortunately my mom is back in the hospital and while we know the main issue, we're waiting to see just how bad it is (and it might not be bad at all). This means I'll be with her for a good bit and I'm not sure how that is going to impact the reviews going forward. It's the reason Raw isn't up yet (though I'm a good chunk of the way through it) as I was here with my son most of the day and slept about two hours in two days. I'll have things up ASAP but I can't guarantee anything for the time being. If everything is ok with her, we should be back to normal soon though. I'm sorry for the issues but this is more important than anything wrestling related.

Thank you as always,

KB