

Night of Champions Predictions

It's Sunday and we have three major matches.

Here are my picks:

HHH vs. Punk

I guess I'll go with Punk here, likely to set up a rematch inside HIAC which it's WAY too early in the feud for but the calendar says that it's time for a Cell match to take place.

Cena vs. Del Rio

I'm going to make this quick since it's about 2am and thinking about this match puts me to sleep. Cena because it's a shorter word to type. Has there been a world title match with a worse build in recent memory not in TNA? I can't think of one.

Orton vs. Henry

Now THIS is an interesting one. My money is on Orton to set up one last match in the Cell with Christian which is almost built up properly as a HIAC match. I don't have a ton of confidence in that pick though as Henry has been on a roll lately and I could easily see him taking the title. When the booking points one way (Orton wins) but it could go either way, you have a well set up match which I can't believe I'm saying about a Henry match but it's true.

Thoughts on these and/or any other matches?

No Surrender Predictions

The show is tomorrow and I forgot to put this up until now.

There are only two things that matter so here are my picks for them: Given how they've changed the finals of the tournament from a fourway at the beginning to a tournament (I might have imagined that one since it makes the most sense) to whoever has the most points, I have no idea who is winning it. I mean it's not like TNA did anything on Impact to make us care about the matches or tell us who needs to do what to win for people that were being sold on the PPV at the last show, but that would have made sense and is why TNA never grows its audience. I'll take Roode for lack of anyone better.

As for the main event I'll take Angle I guess but I'm not caring about the match or the show much at all.

Your picks? You can predict any of the matches of course.

Summerslam Predictions

Well we only have five matches but here we go: First of all I'll take Beth getting the title to get it out of the way.

Bryan vs. Barrett I'll pick Bryan but not by much. Should be a good match.

Sheamus vs. Henry could go either way. I'll flip a coin and go with Sheamus but with zero confidence in it.

Christian over Orton on a hunch. The ending to the show seems as if Christian has a plan. I could see a cash-in here but I'm not calling it.

I'll take Cena to win this but it could go either way again. I rarely predict shenanigans in a major sense (with TNA it's not a prediction of if but rather who and when so I don't count that) but I think HHH might be up to something here.

There will probably be the Usos vs. New Nexus since if you check WWE.com, McGillicutty is officially Smackdown now. Sounds like plans for a title change to me.

Your thoughts?

Hardcore Justice Predictions

The show is tomorrow but I was really busy last night so I didn't get this up.

TNA's latest PPV offering is tomorrow with the main event being Angle vs. Sting. With not much else going on, here are my thoughts:

I think Sting will hold onto the title, likely through some form of shenanigans. They'll try to have an epic match which will probably be a step beneath what they had intended. Other than that, Daniels to join Immortal and new tag champions. With nothing else of note on the show, any thoughts on it?

MITB Predictions

I'll get used to putting these up eventually.

Anyway we have four major matches tomorrow night:

Raw MITB

SD MITB

Christian vs. Orton

Punk vs. Cena

Your thoughts?

As for mine:

I'm going to go with Cena retaining by pin, Rey as a total in the dark pick, Orton to retain and I guess Cody to win MITB. I have very little confidence there though so that is what it is.

Thoughts?

Thoughts On Destination X

I'm going to try to do this either the Friday or Saturday before every PPV.

What do expect for Destination X?

My thoughts:

The last few weeks of Impact have been far better than usual and that's mainly due to the better pacing of the show. At the same time the majority of the focus being on the X-Division and random talent that hasn't been seen in a long time if ever at all. This should be a fun show, but what I wonder is what's going to happen once this show passes. I'd bet they're just going to go back to business as usual after mentioning Destination X and how awesome it is a few times, which is annoying but probably the best idea overall. As for match predictions, I'll take the following: Abyss over Kendrick Styles over Daniels Joe over Kaz (not sure on this one at all) RVD over Lynn Zima Ion to win the contract (total hunch here) As for the fourway, I'll take Shelley with no real reason.

Your thoughts?