

Regarding The Advertisements

So as you might have noticed, a few months back, I changed ad providers and the site's advertisements have shall we say increased. While it's made far more revenue, it's also led to a lot more complaints about how the place looks and...yeah it was too much. I didn't realize how annoying they were so I've cut back on some of them. I can't say the current number will stay this low as I have to find a balance between not being intrusive and keeping revenue at a certain level, but there won't be as many ads as there were before. I wouldn't want to come to a site like that and I can't imagine you all would either.

KB