

Upcoming Maintenance

If you can see this, the site may be down for a few hours in the near future. Apparently the site has been hacked and I'm having it cleaned soon to get rid of the malware. I've been told it should only be for a few hours, if it goes down at all. Therefore, if the site happens to be offline, just check back in a few hours and everything should be fine.

KB

---

Potential Maintenance

Upcoming

Got a message from my hosting company and they're doing some work on the server that hosts my site. There's a chance that the site may be down for a short amount of time sometime in the next few days. Everything is fine and I know it's coming but please bear with me if you can't get on for a bit. This should only be a one time thing.

KB

---

Site Maintenance On Wednesday

The hosting company sent me an e-mail saying the site will be down for about thirty minutes on Wednesday. This shouldn't be anything complicated and things should be back up soon. If you try to access it and can't, everything is fine and I knew about it in advance. Check back in about half an hour and it should be running.

KB

---

Upcoming Maintenance

Apparently the company that hosts my site is going to be doing some maintenance on the servers Saturday night at midnight EST. No word on the length of time the site will be down but odds are it won't be that long. Just to be clear though: everything is fine and the site will be back up a few hours (presumably) after it goes offline.

KB