

Wrestlemania #6: Is This The Right Formula?

It seems that there are two ways to run a Wrestlemania: There's the way that the earlier ones (as in 1, 3, 5 and 6 so far) have been done and then there's the way that most of the more recent ones have been done. By that I mean having one big main event and then the rest of the card is whatever, or the way today's are run with multiple huge matches. Simple question: which do you prefer?

I think I prefer the older way. It's about one match and one showdown and there's something cool about that. However if it fails, you're pretty much screwed.

Thoughts?