

You Mean It Matters?

So I haven't been a fan of Mixed Match Challenge this season but this should make it a lot more interesting. <https://www.wwe.com/wwe-mmc-winners-to-receive-rumble-opportunity-and-trip-anywhere-in-the-world>

The official prize for the winners is getting to be the #30 entrants in both Royal Rumble matches (and a vacation each). See, now that's the kind of thing that makes this feel important. It was cool to have the winners' charity get money last time, but this is something that is going to have an impact on the big stories. Of course it also limits the realistic winners, but it's nice to see something that actually matters come out of this. I'm pleased, though not as pleased as I'll be when this thing is finally over.