

Went To Axxess Again

And it was roughly a 1938% improvement. We're about to get ready for Wrestlemania so this is going to be quick.

Met New Day and they're every bit as funny as they are on TV. They kept people laughing the whole way through, Big E. did his funny voices, Kofi is made for the live crowd (as he kept pointing and smiling at fans) and Woods is just entertaining in general.

Met Hillbilly Jim and Gene Okerlund. Both of them were very nice and talked to me about being from Kentucky. I mentioned that we were on our honeymoon and Okerlund looked at her and said he could see why. So Okerlund thinks my wife is attractive. I think I can live with this.

Then it was off to the Shawn Michaels line which took awhile but was more than worth it. Shawn couldn't have been nicer and smiled when I said he was the only person to ever make me jump out of my chair. On top of that he hugged my wife as she was crying over meeting him. That's easily the highlight of the weekend for her, if not of her life.

Also saw the Bellas, Eva Marie, Emma and Sharmell at various points. The camera doesn't do Emma justice.

FAR better experience overall today with multiple people at most booths, better names in the second section (New Day was there for an hour, were replaced by Sami Zayn for the second hour and then it was Ted DiBiase and Gerald Brisco for the second half. NXT had Samoa Joe instead of the low level women.) and far fewer people. That was the major problem yesterday: too big of a crowd with not a lot they wanted to do. Great day here and the Axxess that I loved from a few years back.
