

Thought of the Day: WWE Is Too Polished

I've noticed this a lot watching Raw's from the Attitude Era. Back in the day, Raw looked a bit more gritty and toned down. It wasn't the same set but with different colors on the tron. Things looked more bare and in a way, that's a nice change. Instead of having everything flashy and a big presentation, it was more about what you got in the ring and in the back. I'm not saying strip everything down, but stop making things look so big and polished. It might help a bit.