

New Column: Don't Screw It Up

The timing on these things is getting annoying.

So there it is. The company is officially on a major cable network which is on equal footing with USA. The hard work begins now, but this is a major, major success and something that is way beyond the best case scenario. Well done indeed.

Oh and thank you Impact fans for trying to defend Pop and Pursuit because wrestling scares away major networks. That defense was bogus for years and here's even more proof of how wrong it was.
